There are many unsung heroes and sheroes who have been working tirelessly and relentlessly especially since the pandemic hit the globe. Not just our doctors and nurses but our mental health practitioners, and people generally who were drawn together, to look out for each other due to a global situation. People who were brought together through each other's humanity, to look out for their 'universal brother or sister' which was not defined by culture, colour, background nor status but by the situation that we were all forced into, where all of a sudden – we were all truly 'in this together.'

However, the juxtaposition of being UNSUNG is also that many people just want to quietly get on in the background to follow their purpose in serving humanity. They don't want the bright lights, the accolades or even the recognition. Therefore, in The Winter issue, each person featured and each contributor gives us all a rounded view of their take on UNSUNG, each with their own merit on the theme and voice of wisdom.

EXCLUSIVE: with the legend American Soul, Funk, Jazz Composer, Jazz legend, Vibraphone Player Roy Ayres and also The Whispers, remember ‘And the Beat Goes On?’”

FASHION: Mark Fowler - New styles, New shapes, New modes: That's the role my passion takes for who I am, fashionista Mark Unique Fowler. The Unsung hero is one who masters his own individuality and therefore shines in that uniqueness.

Esther Austin shares her Fashion Hacks and how to keep unravelling that unique human spirit and essence of who you are through every expression, one being fashion.
